HIV PrEP

Pre-exposure prophylaxis (PrEP) is an HIV prevention strategy where HIV-negative individuals take medicine to reduce their risk of contracting HIV. The medication works by preventing HIV from establishing infection inside the body.

PrEP has been shown to reduce the risk of HIV infection for men who have sex with men, men and women with multiple sexual partners, and injection drug users who share needles. Kaiser Permanente offers PrEP for HIV prevention to its members through the Care Pathway Center.

HIV Care

Care Pathway Center also provides individualized treatment plans for our members who are living with HIV. Using the most innovative HIV treatment regimens, our goal is to ensure that our members who are living with HIV achieve complete viral control and live healthy lives. We also provide HIV counseling services and confidential screening for HIV and other sexually transmitted infections (STIs).

¹Coverage may vary depending upon plan type. Covered services are based on medical necessity and may be subject to change. Applicable copy/coinsurance and/or deductible apply. ²Your appeal rights: If we deny your request for coverage as a result of our Utilization Management review or payment of a benefit claim, you have the right to file an appeal to ask that we reconsider our decision. Generally, we'll issue a written notice that tells you the specific reasons why we denied coverage or payment for the item or service. The notice will describe your appeal rights and how to file an appeal. You can also find additional information about the appeal process in your Evidence of Coverage.
