

Video transcript of Lakewood Medical Offices Beam Signing event

This building was built in 1972, so it's time for an upgrade.

I am extremely excited.

I've been here for 10 years.

We've been talking about the building the whole time and to finally see it come to fruition, it's just been an amazing thing to watch and so much progress has already happened so far.

It's been really exciting.

We've been in this building for over 50 years.

So we have had patients, you know, I'm a pediatrician, so I have patients who bring their kids in that were seen here by their pediatrician 30 plus years ago in the exact same building.

And so they're excited to see our progress too and be in a more updated modern building.

In general.

This is one of our busiest medical office centers in Colorado.

And for Kaiser Permanente, this is absolutely our busiest urgent care.

So we'll have twice as many rooms.

The technology will be significant, so it'll be a better experience for the patient and our care teams.

This building was built a decade before I was born.

Hopefully this new one outlasts my lifetime, but it's really cool to know that you know our names, my name, my team's names, all our staff and physicians names will be on that beam to really just memorialize the contributions that we've all made, the commitment that we're making to a healthy, thriving Lakewood for the next 50 plus years.

Let's sign the beam.

That's what we're all here for.

Our people is really what make U.S.

special and to so to have those names on the beam, that's what truly is a reflection of our medical building and our medical community.

So just having that there tangibly in writing is a huge deal.
